

QUICK RESULTS FROM THE EVENING WORLD'S CRUSADE AGAINST ACKRON'S INFAMOUS DIVE.

THE INSPIRATION.

From The Evening World of Wednesday, Aug. 1.

HOW LONG?

How long is Divekeeper Akron, of the Tivoli, to be permitted to use and boast of his shameful "pull"?

How long is he to own the Tenderloin police?

How long are thuggery and robbery to flourish defiantly in his vile resort?

How long is this impresario of vice to laugh at law and public decency?

How long is he to have police "protection"?

How long is he to be kept out of jail?

How long?

TIVOLI DAY IN COURT.

Women Caught in the Raid Fined and the Manager Held.

The Evening World's crusade against the notorious Akron and his Tivoli dive has borne fruit at last, and the thug and ex-convict who has so long boasted of his pull and defied the law has come to the end of his rope.

Chief Devery declared to-day that Akron would have to leave the city. He had evidence, he said, which ought to break the Tivoli license, and he would lay it before the State Excise Board to-morrow. Having begun his crusade against the resort with last night's raid, he intended to continue and would raid the place again to-night if it was opened and the usual habits gathered there.

Senator Ford was a witness against John McAvoy, the bartender who assaulted John in the dive some days ago. John O'Connor, the acting manager of the Tivoli, was held in $2,000 bail for examination to-morrow, and a number of women arrested in the raid were fined.

Jefferson Market Police Court was jammed this morning with the eighty-one women and ten of the 180 men arrested last night in the raid on the notorious Tivoli and their friends. Every seat in the dingy court-room held double its usual quota, while many trips of the patrol wagon were necessary to bring the prisoners down from the West Thirtieth street station.

COURT JAMMED.

Knowing that the prisoners taken in the raid would be arraigned in the Jefferson Market Court this morning hundreds of morbidly curious persons gathered about the place. Some were there as early as 7 o'clock.

When a few minutes after 8 o'clock the place was opened for business it filled in a few moments. There were as many prisoners that there was not room enough for all within the railing and many of them sat outside.

The large crowd annoyed Magistrate Pool and he ordered the court cleared of every person not having business there. Three times this was done, but as fast as they were put out of one door the spectators thronged in another.

Of the women taken in the net twenty-seven had secured bondsman. They came to court in cars, on the trolley cars and afoot. They looked as bright and chipper as society women out for a morning shopping tour. They had the advantage of their less fortunate sisters of having an opportunity to go home and "fix up," as one said. Many of these looked like refined young women, totally unlike the class that frequent the dives.

There were fifty-four women in the court prison. They had been carried down early in several patrol wagons from the West Thirtieth street station. The women's prison was filled to overflowing and many were out in the men's division.

Capt. Thomas was in the court at 8:30 o'clock and conferred with Magistrate Pool for an hour. They talked about the best method of procedure. It took nearly two hours for the clerks to make out the complaints.

HELD FOR VAGRANCY.

The women who had been out on bond were taken into the Gerry Society room and the roll called. Two were missing. They were Margaret Reynolds and Margaret Shaw.

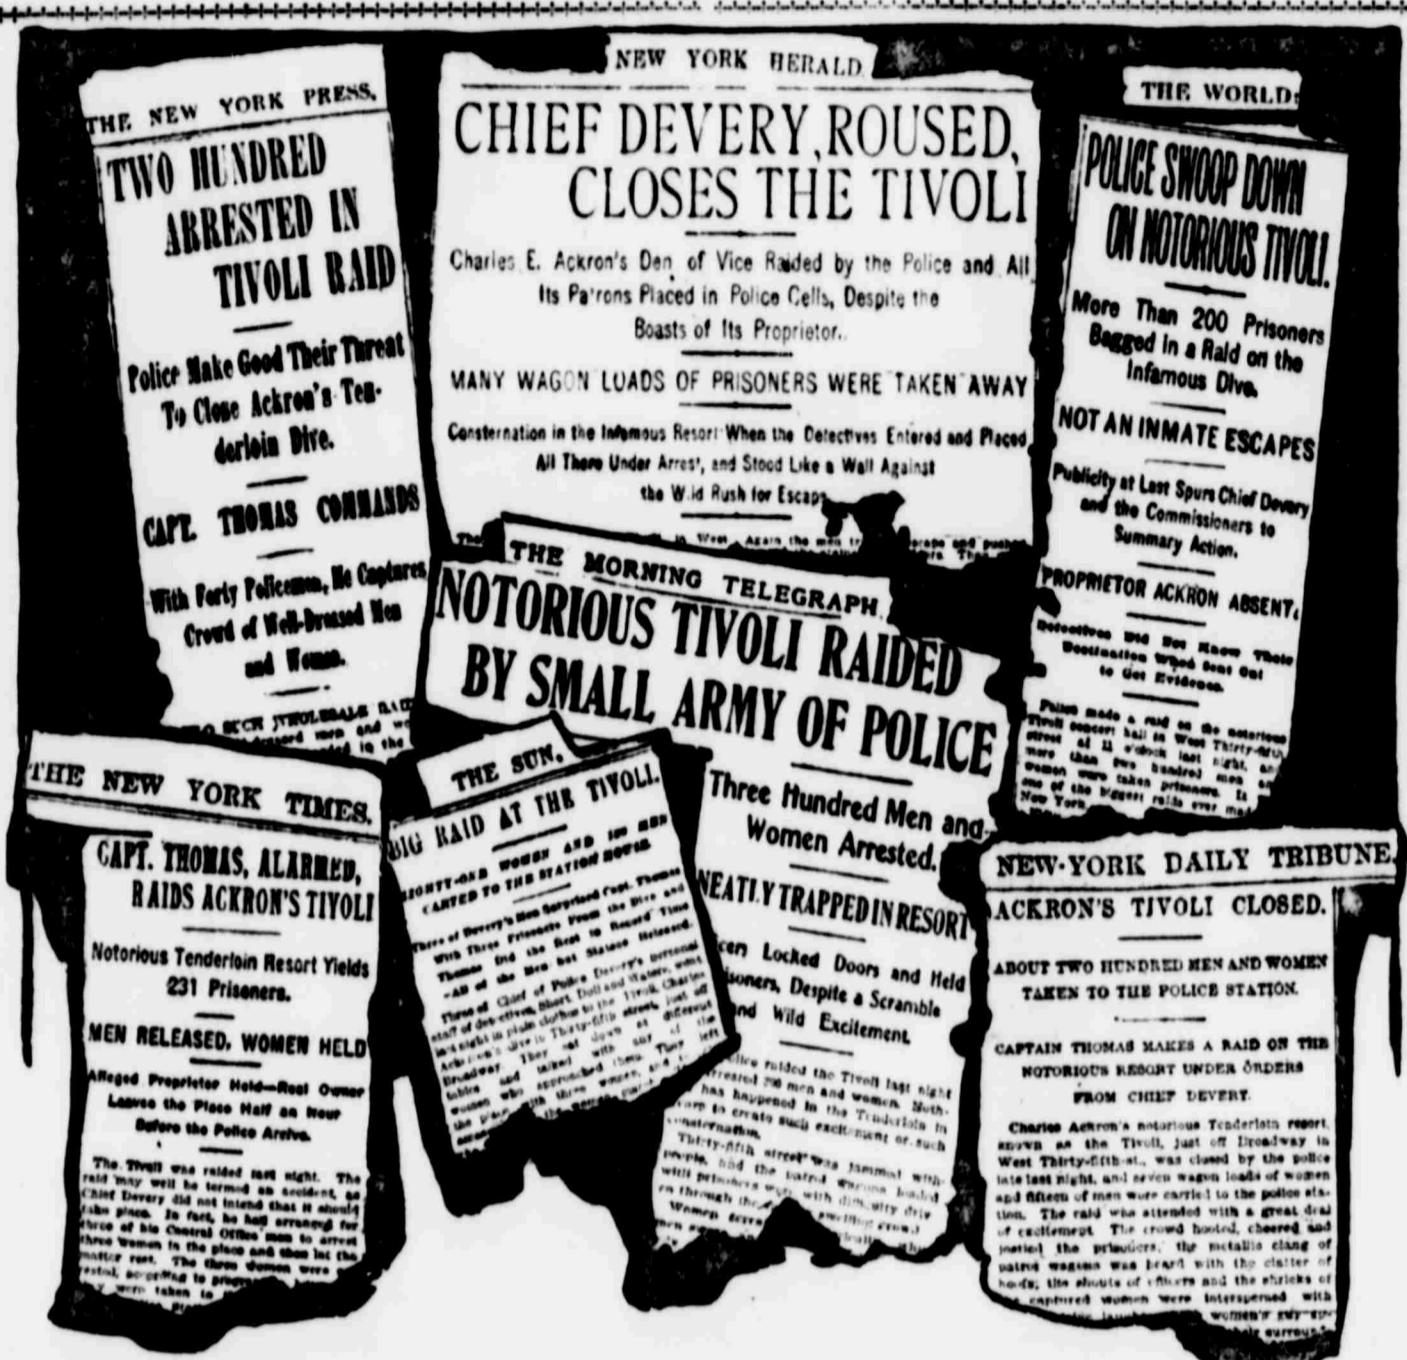

It was said there was a pretty young girl in the prison, who said her name was Mamie King and claims to have come from Philadelphia on a vacation. She had heard of the Tivoli and had gone there to see what it was like. She cried and said her family is respectable and that she had never been in such a place.

The women were taken into court in pairs. The three arrested by Chief Devery's men being arraigned first, were charged with vagrancy and disorder. They gave their names as Eva Brown, Alexandrene and Hilda R. Grace.

Grace was accused of in short having no defense and was

THE OUTCOME.

From This Morning's Papers.

DEVERY WILL BREAK ACKRON'S LICENSE.

"TERROR OF THE SUGAR AND B.R.T. KIDS" IS FINED. BRISK STOCKS.

Policeman Powers, Who Arrested a Tot, Up on Charges.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E. Powers, the "Terror of the Kids" in Stuyvesant Park, who on last Friday arrested little Annie Calahan for picking three ivy leaves, was arraigned before Commissioner Hess to-day. A charge was made against him for sitting on a bench in the park. He was fined a half-day's pay.

Patrolman William E.